OUTLINES GREAT PROGRAM OF ROAD BUILDING FOR THE STATE

Most Ambitious Highway Plan Ever Announced To Be Pushed

COUNTY SEATS TO BE JOINED

Gov. William C. Sproul outlined a road building program at Harrisburg on Thursday, which, if carried to completion, will give Pennsylvania one of the most complete improved highway systems, of any commonwealth in the United States.

Briefly stated, this plan provides for the expenditureof about $40,000,000 within the next two years, of which amount $25,000,000 will be provided from thesale of bonds authorized by the people of the state last fall, the balance being made up from current revenues, automible licenses and an appropriation from the national government. The plan contemplates the joining of all the county seats in the state with improved roads, with feeders leading out from these points and reaching every part of the commonwealth. According to the plan autlined by Gov. Sproul it is proposed to expend about $75,000,000 during the next four years in this work, which will be under the direction of the State Highway Department.

It isthe most ambitious road building program ever outlined by any commonwealth, and the plans are already being prepared by the State Highway Commissioner and his assistants. It is also announced that some other material besides macadam will have to be found with which to construct hese roads, something more durable and which will sand up under theheavy strain of travel.

Governor Sproul let it be known however that no overloaded trucks would be permitted to use these roads, making special reference to the announcement of a companywhich proposes to operate a line of 30-ton trucks between Toledo, O., and New York. The Governor says such vehicles will not be permitted on Pennsylvania highways. As Governor Sproul has been alifelong advocate of good roads, and has the confidence of the people, the announcement of his program is received with great satisfaction.

FOUR MINUTE MEN DISBAND

Discharges Are Presented To Members at Banquet Table

TO CONTINUE ORGANIZATION

Charleroi's Four Minute Men, of which Hugh E. Fergus was the competent chairman, were formally demobilized and discharged from the service of their country, Thursday evening. The demobilization was made the occasion of a banquet which was held at the Hotel Wilbur at 8 o'clock, for which Mine Host Zwick had prepared a menu of the most tempting character, and to which every guest did ample justice. This menu embraced celery, olves, radishes, blue point cocktail, cream of tomato soup, roast turkey, stuffing and cranberry sauce, cream potatoes, candied sweets, brussel sprouts, stewed corn, head lettuce salad, ice cream, coffee, cake and cigars.

Hugh E. Fergus, Esq., acted as toastmaster and as each member of the Four Minute Battalion was given his Certificate of Honor or discharge he was met with a bit of raillery, ala Gridiron, in which the characteristics of the recipient were set forth in verse of a most hilarious character, all of which added to the merriment of the occasion. Certificates were also presented to the managers of the various theatres, who had given the use of their houses at the request of the government, to the Four Minute Men, anl by means of which thousands of people were reached with special messages.

Those who were present at the banquet were: Four Minute Men: Hugh E. Fergus, chairman; H. J. Booth, Roland W. Brown, Thos. H. Warrensford, Guy Moffitt, J. B. Tussing, R. G. Knight, John D. Berryman, D. R. Hormell, W. R. Gaut, S. D. Hill, Thos. L. Pollock, C. E. Preslho and James Heffran. Theatre managers—R. L. Barnhart, R S. Coyle and M. Rosenbloom. Special guests were K. W. Daly, E W. Hastings and R. H. Rush.

During the evening a motion prevailed that the organization continue, but under another name, to give aid in publicity campaigns that may take place in the future Chairman Fergus will name this committee shortly.

Favors A Community Building As Memorial

In an interview given out at Harrisburg on Thursday, Governor Sproul covered a wide range of subject, mentioning among other things community memorials to the soldiers who helped to defeat t he ambitions of the German Kaiser and his war lords. Commenting on this subject, which has received more or less consideration in every town in the state he said:

"I think that community houses which can be made centers of community life, make the only kind of suitable memorials. These buildings should be erected with the thought in mind that they are to foster community hospitality. I prefer this to the erection of marble and bronze statues."

Many citizens in various communities have expressed themselves in the same way, b elieving that a suitable building would be a more enduring monument in honor of the soldiers than one of any other kind, be it marble or bronze. Moreover, it would be something of value to the community in many ways, the benefits of which would go directly to the soldiers and the citizens generally.

HARRY M. SWICKEY WRITES FROM FRANCE

H. L. Swickey is in receipt of a very interesting letter form his son, Harry M. Swickey, now with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. The letter is peculiarly interesting in that itis just one year ago today that young Swickey entered the service of Uncle Sam, and who now writes so entertaingly of his experiences abroad. His letter is as followss:

American Expeditionary Force
January 8, 1919

Dear Father:—I will now write you a letter telling you all I have done while being in France. I left the states, July 10th from Newport News Virginia at 8:30 a. m. Landed at Brest, France, July 21, had a very nice trip across; was on the ship Natsonia. We took part with a few other companies unloading the ship. It carried tobacco, oats bacon, trucks, airplanes, and cigarettes. It took three days and three nights to unload it. Then we made our packs and hiked for seven miles to a rest camp which used to be one of Napolean's camps. I stayed there for ane day, and then went with one of our lieutenants to the docks to draw traveling rations. That night I stood guard watching the rations until the next morning. We were then loaded in box cars, which had a sign on them reading 40 Hommes or 8 Chev-

MAKES FINAL REPORT AND RESIGNS OFFICE

Kerfoot W. Daly, chairman of the War Savings Committee of Washington county, for the sale of Thrift and War Savings Stamps, has tendered his resignation to Hon. James Francis Burke, State Chairman, to take effect at once, at the same time filing with the state organization his final report of sales for Washington county in 1918. Mr. Daly gave up this feature of war work because of the many demands made upon his time from other sources and because of the additional fact that he will be in charge of the Fifth Liberty Loan in Washington county.

In his report to State Chairman Burke he showed that the following sales had been made from the various postoffices of the county, as well as from the banks as a whole:

Charleroi	$105,401.75
Donora	64,339.25
McDonald	122,617.75
Monongahela	154,739.50
California	31,005.00
Canonsburg	104,057.25
Washington	714,487.25
Total from postoffices	$1,296,727.50
Sold by banks	185,035.00
Grand total	$1,487,762.50

The big showing made by the Washington postoffice is due to the fact that 93 other postoffices outside of the first class postoffices in the county bought stamps from that source.

Various Ways Are Taken to Clear the Town of Those Not Wanted

NEW MEN TAKING THEIR PLACES

According to reports coming from the east side of the river there appears to be a gradual transitory movement in Monessen tending toward clearing the town of what is considered an objectionable element which has for some months been drifting into that town, in the way of unskilled labor. This labor was brought in from time to time in order to keep the wheels of industry going during the absence of the soldiers in cantonments or in service abroad.

Quite a shipment of new men arrived in Monessen during the past few days, who are to be employed in mill work, and the objectionable and lawless element is being weeded out as fast as possible. A number of cases of this character were before Justice of Monessen during the past few days, some of them convicted and sent to jail while others were ordered to leave town.

It is said that during the present week t here has been quie a numbar of colored men seeking work, hs coming as a result of the policy of weeding out those whom the big industries did not desire to carry any longer on their payroll. Many of Monessen's citizens are of the opinion that the best thing for these men to do is to ge back to the South as soon as possible, where conditions appear to be more suitable in that section than in the North.

PLENTY OF WORK PROMISED FOR ALL

News dispatches from Washington staate that fears of a long-continued unemployment were discounted late Thursday in a statement by the training service of the Department of Labor, which predicted that when agriculture and industrial concerns get under way in the spring there will be a shortage of several million men. Manufacturers were urged to begin at once a training program to increase the efficiency of thehelp they now have in anticipation of the shortage to come later.

The statement said that practical cessaion of immigration in the past four years had caused aloss of 2,500,000 new inhabitants and that probably 1,000,000 American workers would be under arms in France for many months. Estimating that farms in the spring would need 2,000,000 workers, and that factories and building operations would require large numbers, officials said there would soon be keen competition between f actories and farmers for unskilled labor.

THE BOYS WHO WON

The are coming back from over there by the thousands, just as fast as army red tape can be unwound and ships can be provided to bring them

Most of them are strong limbed and lusty lunged. Better physically for the exercise and short of the joy at getting home again.

And some of them are maimed and broken. crippled of spirit or shattered of health Some will never regain their old time form.

And some will never return at all.

But every mother's son of them did his part. helped insure liberty and justice for the world at large and restore Uncle a m to his rightful position in theestimation of thenations of earth.

They did their duty fully. these boys who won.

But what of you. Mr.Stay-at-home?

While the world war was claiming its victims by th thousands, while our khaki-clad soldiery was being whipped into shape for over seas service, and while it was later tipping the balance along the French front, there were several Liberty Loans floated here at home.

How nearly did you come to paying your debt to the cause of world liberty? To your country? To the boys who were fighting your battles at the front.

Are you as proud of your accomplishment as are these boys who won?

Can you shake thehand of your boy or your neighbor's boy, just home, with a clear conscience.

Can you watch him go limping down the street without a twinge of self pity?

Can you look him in his one good eye without a feeling of shame?

If you can't, get ready to square yourself with him and your conscience.

Thre's another Liberty Loan coming. It's not too late for you.

Make good as they did—these boys who won.

A SIGNIFICANT EVENT

An important feature of President Wilson's reception in England has failed to receive the attension it deserved, his unveiling of a copy of one of Peale's portraits of George Washington in number 10 Downing street has the significance in England that Wilhelmstrasse had in Germany and about the same as attaches to our White House. That the portrait of Washington should be unveiled there by our President of these times was an event of great and far-reaching significance. With the pictured eyes of George Washington hereafter looking down on the high councils of the British Empire, it may be safely assumed that the fraternity of the two English-speaking nations is an assured and permanent thing.

It is recalled that in 1776 a prominent Englishman prophesied that the time would come when the Virginia George would be better known in history than the third British George then on the throne. This has more than come true. Even in England Washington is now better known and more venerated than George III. George V himself now probably entertains a greater respect for Washington and for Wilson than for his royal ancestor of German blood. The British people in general now respect even thecause which led Washington to revolt and which brought into being a nation destined to become the greatest of the world.

Only seven thousand soldiers among all the Allies have been blinded during the war, but the change from the brimmed felt that to the European cap must have doneinjury to the eyes of more than one American soldier aux, meaning 40 men or 8 horses. Wehad a two day trip and arrived at Guer. France which is near Rennes, on the 28th of July. We then made our packs up and rested for an hour at the station for orders and then hiked for about five miles to Camp Coetquidan. We ate our dinner with the 11th Balloon Company and after dinner hiked for about 3-4 of a mile out of camp and pitched large army tents. We then ate supper and afterwards slept on the ground.

A news item from the Pacific coast tells of the shooting of a whale from an airplane. Next year we'll hear of airplanes from Canada and Mexico taking a crack at the eighteenth amendment.

The next day was spent in moving the tents in another place. I was then lined up with the rest of the Machine Gun Detail and went to the post to Machine Gun School. I went there until September 10th. then took an examination passing with 98 percent. Was picked out as one of eight out of sixteen to go away to Machine Gun School to learn to be a gunner. Left Camp Coetquidan September 2 1918 for School which was at Camp De Louge. Arrived there after a two-day trip and started to school the next day. studying and shooting the Hotchkiss Machine Gun. A French gun. which is very good and used by the Machine Gun Battalions of the United States Army. Camp De Louge is a Balloon School, very close to the city of Bordeaux. which is on the south eastern coast. After passing by exams there with "excellent" which is anything above 90 per cent. was sent to Camp Cazaux which is south of Bordeaux. While there for ve days all we did was shoot at targets and toy balloons.

Met Howard Ludwig who used to be Life Saver at the Charleroi Bathing Beach before me. He is now a First Lieutefinant in the Medical Corps as a dentist. Got a pass while there on Sunday to Archon. which is a summer resort for tourists and wealthy French people. It is a very pretty place. Left therefor Camp Coetquidan on Oct 4. 1918. While on our way back we rode in 1st. and 2nd class coaches. and not in box cars. We stopped in Santes Mantes, La Rochefilie. Rennes. Messac, and then went back to camp. Had a very nice trip and a nice time in all of these cities. Was on our way back for four days, would have styed longer in these cities. but ran out of money. After coming back to the company. was put in charge of four men to draw the bread and rations for the Company. Did that every day until about two weeks from the time I left this camp. Then took a job as assistant cook on the one shift in the Officers' Mess. We moved from Camp Coequidan November 6. 1918. to the Toul sector near Nansard and Hendicourt in the Bois De Lan Bellazar Woods.

I only got to fight the Huns one day and that was the last day of the war. November 11. 1918. 11o'clock. It observed for the 28th Division that day. You should have heard the fellows yell and "holler" when the good news came that the war was over. I then went back to the cooking job. I get every other day off and on my day off I go to the different towns and cities in this sector. They are all pretty well shot up. All but a few. I have been in Nancy. Toul. St. Mihiel. Commercy. Pont a Mousson. Mars. La Tour and Chatel. I have tried to get into Metz, but couldn't because only an officer with the rank of Major or above can get into this great German stronghold. I have been getting very good food to eat and can't find a kick. Had a great Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner. I only hope that everybody had as good dinners as I did. Don't expect to be home for about two or three months.

Well, will close as I have to get up at 5.30 a. m.. to get breakfast and need some sleep. I remain.

Our Glorious Flag.

The flag as originally adopted by congress on June 14, 1777, consisted of 13 stripes, alternate red and white, and 13 stars, the 13 in each case corresponding to the 13 colonies engaged in the Revolutionary war When Vermont and Kentucky were added to the Union of states, congress, in 1794, increased the number of stripes and of stars both to 15. This act went into effect May 1, 1795, and from that time until July 4, 1817, that was the style of the flag 15 stripes and 15 stars. But in 1816 it became apparent that the number of stripes could not be increased with the increasing number of states without making the flag too wide and of bad proportion, and a committee was appointed to inquire into the expediency of altering the flag. On June 2, 1817, the committee reported in favor of returning to the original number of 13 stripes. The committee reported a bill to reduce the number of stripes to the original 13, and to add one star for each state admitted, the law to take effect on July 4, 1817, and the bill was passed.

Opportunity.

"The knell of lost opportunity is never tolled in this life," is some one's reassuring word to all who have let more than one opportunity slip by It is never too late to profit by one's mistakes, and press on once more to success For Opportunity is not a solitary genius who comes once, then vanishes He belongs to a large family of man's well-wishers. If we fail to cleave to the elder brothers we can welcome the younger brothers of the clan. Occasionally one finds also that phenomenon of human families—a younger brother, taller, braver, and even more glorious in strength and valor than his fellows. Such later-coming Opportunity may reveal himself to any one of us. Only let us keep our courage keen, keep our eyes clear-seeing, and our faith serene; and when any member of the family of Opportunity appears claim him and cleave to him with all our powers.—Montreal Herald.

Luck.

It is a pathetic little story that Miss Katherine Tynan tells, in "The Middle Years," of Queen Victoria's visit to Dublin in April of 1900. The populace, she says, was very much interested in the donkey carriage that came with the queen so she might have her usual outings in her own way. An old woman met it as it was being driven from the north wall to the viceregal lodge. "I'm the luckiest old woman alive," she said. "I was just comin' back from buryin' my last son-in-law at Glasnevin, and I haven't one to earn a penny for me, and the daughter's left with nine children; but sure wasn't I lucky anyhow? I seen the queen's little asses."

Potatoes Saved by Dynamite.

A resourceful farmer, it is said, found a new way to use dynamite and saved a nearly matured crop of potatoes in a badly flooded field. Unusually heavy rains filled all the neighborhood drains and ditches; in his emergency the owner put down a number of holes 8 to 12 feet deep with a post auger, and exploded a charge of dynamite in the bottom of each. This opened up passages into the sandy subsoil, through which the surplus water drained rapidly, and the crop was saved although many nearby crops were ruined by the excess of water standing in the fields.

A Lost Parrot.

When Macquarrie island, situated in latitude 55 deg. S., 600 miles to the south of New Zealand, was discovered in 1810 it was inhabited by a peculiar flightless parrot described by a contemporary who saw numbers of the birds which were brought to Sydney by sealers as 'the glibbest of the loquacious tribe." Recent investigation of the island makes it almost certain that this strangely isolated specimen of the parrot family is completely extinct probably as a result of the introduction of cats which have become wild and overrun the island.

The Much Abused Goat.

In song and joke, through all the ages the goat has had most of the left-handed compliments. All that the goat has done to redeem his character counts for nothing. The most fashionable men and women wear on their feet and hands the skin of the kid. The finest of shawls, some of the most popular winter garments, are the product of these flocks. Dainty children are fed with the milk of the goat, and it produces the finest of cheese. But there are few good words for the benefactor.—Vancouver Province.

Where Great Men Begin.

The small fry shine with singularities; great men start from their deep likeness to the race. Emerson remarked that great men have accepted the society of their contemporaries, the connection of events, and conned themselves to the genius of their age. A taste for smashing and alienation or martyrdom is not necessarily any better than a taste for heirlooms or sentiment or jewelry.—Stark Young in The New Republic.

No Such Luck.

A famous British general possessed of literary leanings, in the course of an address in Edinburgh some years ago, had occasion to remark that he had kissed the "muses." The printer, thinking he could more accurately estimate the probabilities, made it appear that the gallant soldier had kissed the "nurses." In his letter of correction, almost in a spirit of regret, the general made it clear that he had had no such luck!

Firms Funds Well Guarded.

Six Chinamen were at one time partners in business in San Francisco, says Walter Newton of Seattle. A creditor of the firm, after vain efforts to collect what was due him, found out that the money was in the safe, but that the strongbox had six different locks. Each member of the firm had one key, and it was necessary to have a unanimous agreement among them before the money could be taken from the safe.

Automatically Closes Window.

A devise which should be welcomed by many housekeepers is an automatic window closer. It is manipulated by a strip of blotting paper which holds in place a rod or lever connected with the sash. A drop of rain softens the paper, releases the lever and closes the window.

WHY DO PEOPLE ENDURE COLDS?

When by simply entering a drug store and asking for a 25c jar of KREW-PINA they could put an end to their troubles. KREW-PINA is an ointment that kills all inflammation whether external or internal. You can apply it on your nose and chest before retiring and your cold will be broken the next morning—and a second application usually removes all trace of the trouble. It gives quick relief to croupy children and is splendid for bronchitis, tonsillitis, catarrh, headaches, neuralgia, sore throat, burns, cuts and bruises, and the hundred little troubles that beset the average household. Put up in 25c jars and on sale at all drug stores.

The Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold a social in the Sunday school room of the church this evening.

Stone Age Theory Disproved.

The means of manufacture at the disposal of savages were so small that archeologists were formerly of opinion that a stone ax must be the product of the efforts not merely of one generation but of several, being handed down from father to son, and taking shape gradually, so that an implement begun by an individual might be finished by his grandchild.

That this idea is pure nonsense was proved by the late J. D. McGuire of the United States bureau of ethnology, who, developing a high expertness in such work, made first-class axes in a day or two, chipping them out of hard stone and polishing them by rubbing with sand and water. He even produced sculptures in relief after the pattern of those of ancient Mexico, using no other tools than stone hammers for "pecking" at the rock.

It was the employment of tools, say anthopologists that made man what he is. His brain was educated through the use of his hands.

How could the late Admiral Chadwick who died at 75 have had only seventeen birthdays? It sounds like a puzzle, yet the answer is easy. He was born on February 29, 1844.

Peacemakers are no doubt blessed after it is all over, but those at Versailles arenot finding the preliminaries altogether blissful.

PAINS AND ACHES YIELD QUICKLY TO SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Are you tormented by Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica or any of those aches that require a counter-irritant? Then let the soothing, warming application of Sloan's Liniment stop the pain by drawing the blood away from the congested part.

It is the pressure on the nerves by the blood rushing to the inflamed muscle or joint that makes you ache. So when Sloan's Liniment relieves the swollen blood vessels by setting up a counter-irritant on the surface, the circulation is equalized, sympathetic nerves all soothed, and soreness or lameness disappears.

Sloan's Liniment is probably the counter-irritant most widely used to overcome painful inflammation in cases of neuralgia, sore muscles, wrenched joints, strains, bruises, gout. Rubbing is not required. This clear, clean liquid is easily applied as it does not stain the skin.

Generous size bottles at your druggists.

WINTER TRAVEL IN ALASKA

Archdeacon Stuck Tells of Some of the Sufferings to Be Encountered in the Frozen North.

Archdeacon Stuck, already famous for his ascent of Mount McKinley, made a remarkable journey into Alaska last winter.

His route extended around the whole arctic coast of Alaska, beginning at the west side, and thence inland to Fort Yukon. He was received everywhere with cordial hospitality by the Eskimos. Two weeks were spent at Point Barrow, where the traveler had an opportunity of studying the largest Eskimo village in Alaska under winter conditions. During the subsequent journey of 225 miles to Flaxman island the party saw only one human being and were housed only twice.

The archdeacon describes it as "the barrenest, most desolate, most forsaken coast I have ever seen in my life; flat as this paper on which I write, the frozen land merging indistinguishably into the frozen sea; nothing but a stick of driftwood here and there, half buried in the indented snow, gives evidence of the shore."

For two weeks the travelers had to face a bitterly cold northeast wind, and the faces of all were continuously frozen. The heaviest task of all was the journey over the winter's unbroken snow to Fort Yukon. On this inland trip Stefansson and his party were encountered and escorted to Fort Yukon, where Stefansson, who was seriously ill, received medical attention.

AIRPLANES IN GREAT WAR

Fokkers Must Be Credited With Remarkable Work That Contributed to Victory of Civilization.

The Fokker series is interesting. First, there was the monoplane Fokker, so long a menace at the front. Then they tried the little triplane Fokker, a weird-looking machine, whose specialty was climbing high and diving down on the foe. Unfortunately in the dive the top plane had a way of coming off. It was in a Fokker triplane that the "Red Devil" Baron von Richthofen came to grief, and you can see the engine of his machine, a 110 La Rhone, copied from a French rotary engine.

The last type of Fokker—and a very good one—is the D7 biplane, all metal except for the wings, with a high-power engine and a tremendous climber. The specimen on show belonged to Richthofen's circus. You can follow the attempts of the Germans to win security by armoring their machines, but armoring did not pay, owing to the weight and clumsiness.

Late in 1918 an extraordinary machine was brought down, made entirely of metal, with wings of some kind of aluminum alloy, and a brass seat for the pilot—the whole thing a marvel of bold inventiveness.

How Fast Shot Travels.

When standing within a few yards of a gun's muzzle at the time of discharge, a person would be amazingly astonished were he only able to see the shot go whizzing by. Experiments in instantaneous photography prove that the shot not only spread out, cometlike, as they fly, but they string out, one behind another at a much greater distance than they spread.

Thus, with a cylinder gun, when the shot of a charge reaches a target that is 40 yards away, the last shot is lagging full ten yards behind. Even a chokebore gun shot will lag behind eight yards in 40. This accounts for the wide swath that is mowed in a flock of ducks on which a charge of shot falls just right. About 5 per cent only of the shot, according to the most reliable deductions from experiments, arrive simultaneously at the target aimed at, the others lagging in the ratio named above.

When Romance Faded.

He got her name and address in a Red Cross package and that was all he knew about her. So he did the thing that a lovesick soldier usually does—wrote her a sweet little letter telling how he longed to correspond with some one. How did he know but that a real romance might start? This was her answer:

"I think this war is horrid. I am doing my share. I buy War Savings stamps and eat corn bread, which I don't like. Also I am learning to knit."

But the cruel part is that she added: "I am ten years old."

A Famous "Oasis."

"Did you see Congressman Twobbie while you were in Washington?"

"No. He instructed his office force to say to any one who called that he had gone over to Baltimore to spend the day."

"He actually left a message to that effect?"

"Yes."

"Well, at any rate, he has the courage of his convictions."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The British twin-screw Diesel engined vessel Glenapp, which had just been built by a Glasgow shipyard, is according to the local press the largest and most powerful motor vessel in the world. It is of 10,000 tons deadweight, and has two sets of engines, constructed by Messrs. Harland & Wolff at their Glasgow works. These give a total horse power of 6,600, which figures represent a very marked progress in this type of vessel.

TELL THE WORLD THIS WOMAN SAYS

That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made Me a Well Woman.

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I suffered with female troubles for years, was sick most of the time, was not able to do my own housework, and I could not get help from doctors. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers, and took six bottles, and am a well woman. You can use my name to tell the world the good your medicine has done me as I shall praise it always."—Mrs. A. L. DeVine, 647 St. Paul Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Women who suffer from any form of weakness, as indicated by displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues," should do as Mrs. DeVine did, and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a thorough trial.

For over forty years this famous remedy, which contains the curative, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, has been correcting just such ailments. If you have mysterious complications write for advice to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
